Greetings!

Welcome to the Blue Wall Weekly, your source for what's going on outside along the Southern Blue Ridge Escarpment. Feel free to share your own photos, videos, and adventures along the Blue Wall by sending them to the email address at the bottom of the page, and we'll do our best to make you (locally) famous!

Trees

Bare-branch winter. Trees take on personality not noticed behind the screen of summer green. Consider, for example, tulip poplar, a neat, somewhat prim tree who spends life as a tidy column, orderly limbs thrown sharply heavenward like the praise stance of a church choir. Different, much different, than rangy oak. Oaks are cowboy trees, their strong limbs thrust this way and that at wide, irregular intervals, all the while branching and branching and branching again to take as much sky-space as possible. And then there are those hippie sourwoods, arrow-straight in early years, with lithe trunk bending and swaying and curving as they age; yoga mama tricksters growing into near impossible poses. Who grows in your yard? ~K

Tulip poplars play nice with the neighbors.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Midwinter Bald Eagle Survey has occurred every year since 1979 and is currently being coordinated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. The purpose is to monitor the status of wintering populations throughout the U.S. All bald eagles encountered on standard, non-overlapping survey routes are recorded.

The survey is run each year during the first two weeks of January. In South Carolina, ~ 45 standardized routes are surveyed each year by volunteers. The majority of these routes are on major water systems and a boat is required to conduct the survey. At times some routes are vacant, if you are interested in running a route contact DNR.
